Living With Purpose

SPEAKER AUTHOR CEO

James R. Nowlin is a millennial who no stranger to struggle. As a child, he dreamed of a better life—one that was not entangled with bullying at school, along with domestic violence struggles and alcoholism at home. He worked his way through college, a year of medical school, then law school to become a corporate attorney. After struggling to find his professional calling, he became an entrepreneur and businessman, only to find himself living and unfulfilled and unexamined life, in spite of the significant financial blessings he had achieved. At the pinnacle of his success as a self-made millionaire, James experienced a horrific near-death drowning accident that he calls his “rebirth and awakening.” This event forced him to reexamine his life, his value system, his relationships, and the very definition of what he previously believed living a purposeful life truly is.

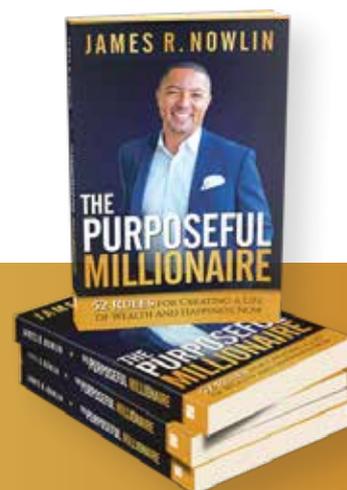

In his keynotes, James humbly shares powerful real-life stories of overcoming obstacles and what he calls secret formulas for creating true success, purposefulness, and self-love in the maze of life. James’ transformation from youthful ego-centeredness and external validation seeking, to self-love and inner peace, has led him to live a new life of elevated consciousness. During this time he has grown his businesses, including his corporate consulting firm, Excel Global Partners, his water reduction technology company, EGP Eco, and his keynote speaking career to levels that he once could never imagined.
